

Andrew Ysasi, MS CRM/CIGO FIP FIIM CIPM CISM PMP IGP CIP
VP President of Advocacy at Vital Records Control

Andrew has 25 years of award-winning professional experience that includes over ten years of executive experience where he once increased the valuation of an organization by 1700% over a ten year period. Andrew achieves success through team development, working smart, transparency, trust, and achieving goals. His proven ability to strategize and understand technology allows organizations and teams to thrive under his leadership.

Andrew has conducted business with people and organizations throughout the globe including North America, South America, Europe, Asia, and Africa. Before his executive experience, he worked in information technology and sales roles. Andrew is a subject matter expert, writer, volunteer for industry boards, sought after speaker, a lecturer at San Jose State University, and taught courses for Cybrary. He holds certifications in information governance, project management, information security management, information privacy management, and records management. Andrew has a bachelor's degree in information technology, a master's degree in administration, and studied data analytics at The Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania

Andrew is also a #resumeexpert featured on CIO Magazine through Admovio!